[Chorus] {X2} I've got my eyes wide shut, shut Too scared to open them up, up And I don't know who to trust, trust That's why I keep my eyes shut, shut [Verse 1] And I'm tired of being so predictable Knowing how I'd respond to situations brought forth by a single individual Typical with my signature mockeries and ridicules My philosophy's based around what's visible to my own eyes Knowing myself so well till I'm left blind By the repetition of time, the signs of stubbornness The rubble gets in the way of my views And I could only see myself from the inside Curious about looking at myself from your point of views I really do have my eyes wide shut And I'll be screaming silently to myself to shut the fuck up Muph is but not enough to conquer the corrupt stuff That snuck passed on a watered down footpath Staring at a mirror through a mask Supposed to be the first to understand me but I'll probably be the last But I'll laugh after the aftermath of that A-class confusion Losing clarity, all illusions Now can it be that? Can it be that? [Chorus] {X2} [Verse 2] Built from moral bricks, my wall stood tall Till you all flashed a light through it Blew it with a slow motion tumble and fall And I don't recall requesting these informative flashes Images projected and I inspected the graphics The lies behind the world and the truth behind the magic Threw me into an immediate panic, havoc to my isolated space Changed the face of my own hidden place No fear or prejudice against any race, we are all equal But these evil people backtrack to the medieval And speak through hate, power, spite and the deceitful The government's holding the world to be conceivable Controlling the media to make it so believable But holding back all sides of the story And so this wall stood before me Guns, violence and slaughter, how are they connected to the glory? The lies bore me and the tide poured the refreshing salt water on my bare feet, vegetables to eat So why am I chewing on the beef? Maybe the truth wasn't meant to be a sneak peak And mentally eventually I'll fill the niche, retreat and continue to speak so much bullshit With my eyes wide shut, shut [Chorus] {X2}
