In some city soaked in pink
I'm so sorry that I came
Hope to never to again
Indicated by a call
To me you'd gone off and all
It will probably start to rain

I'm a saddened little pup
I have nearly given up
On this quarter century
But now starting here today
In this city by the bay
I will date your memory

I look awkward when we dine
Talking to my glass of wine
"What a stunning set of legs"
But the bill is always small
And the greatest part of all
I took lemons make lemonade

When you speak I hear the sound
Of the city all around
An ingenious infamy
You agree with all I say
In this city by the bay
'Cause I date your memory

Well, some guys worry when they've found
That love looks good in only gowns
If I could only show you how Good I'm doing with you now

So you'll find just where you are
Just a smile in my heart
And an easy bite to chew
But if you ever do return
Then I guess we both will learn
If I'll choose you over you

I'm a sorry little man

But as happy as a clam
In the deepest darkest sea
You're not here for me to say
In this city by the bay
That I date your memory
