The snow came in a great white blanket.
It covered up some of the memories.
I had come home to recover.
The snow can be so cold sometimes.

It falls from the sky, so hopelessly.
When you feel the loneliness in the snowflakes.
It makes things further out of reach.
It only makes things colder, so much colder.
Things are so much colder now.

Staring through the flames in the fireplace.
I can see my mother in me.
And I think of how I never turned out the right way.
It's sad to watch the movie played in reverse.

It falls from the sky, so hopelessly.
When you feel the loneliness in the snowflakes.
It makes things further out of reach.
It only makes things colder, so much colder.

Sleep little child, rest without fear.
Know that I'm always near.
Calm your heart, it's beating itself to death.
It's beating itself to death.

So calm my heart, I try so hard to see you.
Calm my heart, it's beating itself to death.
I try so hard just to see you.

It falls from the sky, so hopelessly.
When you feel the loneliness in the snowflakes.
It makes things further out of reach.
It only makes things colder, so much colder.

It falls from the sky, with the intentions of killing.
It kills the ones, lost on love.

And now the candles are burning low.
The snow is leaving just as it came.
We're left with a new world.

And I'm not quite sure I fit into it.
And I'm not quite sure I fit into it.
