You got me hooked without a clue, my wacky heart crashed into you feel your touch like velvet gloves - you said you'd never get enough hearts got broken, hearts got burned, well now I listen while I learn

It's hard to say I love you and it's hard to say I don't people don't change the just alter the game but the truth will never change
It's hard to say I love you and it's hard to say I don't It's always the same and it's never too late from the cradle to the grave

A brilliant trap, but poor disguise, I guess you planned it all so wisely well some love is cheap it took some time to figure out, but now I know what this is all about It's hard to say....

What goes around comes around I guess this might be true
some words are as old as the world itself, so why don't you tell me something new?
Time has passed and in between a lotta things have changed since then but some things stay the same will be as they've ever been
hearts got broken, hearts got burned

It's hard to say....
