You wake up in the morning
Look for a clue, something new Turn on the radio and it's as dead
As the visions dying in your head

And when you were young
You had big ideas, no hidden fears
You had your heroes, they were walking tall
Now your devotion seems comical

So now you got older and the world's got colder than it used to be
Every day gets longer and turns into a darker night Down in the gutter nothing seems to matter but your history
I couldn't get it, I couldn't get it right

You played the game as children Didn't understand, life's not so grand 'Cause love hurts you and you could feel Lonely, lonely, lonely one

Some people get it easy
They got it made, so unafraid
You'll be the fool and find the winner
He's gonna take it all

So now you got older and the world's got colder than it used to be
Every day gets longer and turns into a darker night
Down in the gutter nothing seems to matter but your
history
I couldn't get it, I couldn't get it right

So now you got older and the world's got colder than it
used to be
Every day gets longer and turns into a darker night
Hey, you got older and this world's got colder than it used to be
Every day gets longer and turns into a darker night

Down in the gutter nothing seems to matter but your

history

I couldn't get it, I couldn't get it right, no, no, no, no

I couldn't get it, I couldn't get it right
