

Magic Numbers, The "Hotel Braze"

Visit "Hotel Braze" on MotoLyrics.com

Tell me, old man, did ya try to leave it alone?
But the wheels on my back kept pushing me back on the run.
Free as I know there's a words that everyone takes,
I got lines that will tie to the story on my face.
Hotel Braze, ohh, Hotel Braze
As a boat docks in, it'll all begin once again.

And the lies I've told to the people I've known throughout,
They don't seem to lie too good with me, now.
When the charm wore out and the money ran out in style,
But I drink to forget even I was once a child.
Hotel Braze, ohh, Hotel Braze
As a boat docks in, it'll all begin once again.
Hotel Braze, ohh, Hotel Braze
Where the taps may drip, where the clock should tick
all day.

There's a light down the alley,
There's an old wishbone,
As the light fades gently, if you're left alone.
In the night, thats what you wished for.

There's a hole in your hand which once held hope,
And a bible, thats since turned to stone
In the night, thats what you wished for.
Hotel Braze, ohh, Hotel Braze
As a boat docks in, it'll all begin once again.
Hotel Braze, ohh, Hotel Braze
Where the taps may drip, where the clocks should tick
all day.

Visit Magic Numbers. The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.