I believe there are times in life Where we're challenged to survive here comes another day we couldn't live the perfect life

I'm gonna live like I'm dying tomorrow I'm gonna change my big plans I've come alive ignoring all the sorrow erase the weight from my memories get back it's gone forever If time's a trick then we wouldn't exist we won't live forever we must obey this

lonely tonight
there's always chemicals in me
lonely tonight
there's always something better
lonely tonight
there's always chemicals in me
lonely tonight
there's always something better

so here he comes again that lonely self-indulging rat the world is filled with pain we're too busy looking inside what's real when you've lost a lover ?????????? going out through the night you lose yourselves pouring into another It's our illusions baby

lonely tonight
there's always chemicals in me
lonely tonight
there's always something better
lonely tonight
there's always chemicals in me
lonely tonight

We've all been here since birth so if anybody asks you, you belong to man on earth!

there's always chemicals in me
lonely tonight
there's always something better
lonely tonight
there's always chemicals in me
lonely tonight
there's always something better

we've got these moments, got no solutions we take our bodies, our lives for granted we are all monsters, we are all chemicals we are reactions and never satisfied there's always something, something better we are all chemical, something better
lonely tonight
there's always something better
