I have drunk the smelly christian blood of one thousand pregnant women, twisted their pitiful lifes and their souls in order to burst in the nothingness. All that I touch and contemplate must slowly perish in suffering, I am the wizard born from a blazing coal, inhabiting the tombs of the human kind!... No prayer can save you, the nights are too black for the angels, it's pointless to flee, I see where you are in the ravens'eyes, I will shred your spirit, on your face shines the cadaveric reflection, this life breathes anguish, soon the moon will light up the marble of your grave on which I will drop dispair flower... the shining stars of heaven dye my icy eyes, my scorn for the mortals is rocked by the angels cries! Ravens...
