like a vision, I am drowning into time of hate running through hedges of pain howling wolves in a glade of sleep lost night cries in the crack of dawn burned out candles on a hill so close like a vision I die among the oceans with hands full of blood I rest in the fire into a greyish forest, rain never ends

I travel through... the oceans of time the oceans of time time is standing still as I awake from my journey cold eyes floating within time as one with a heart of the blackest coal I travel through, I breathe through the shadows

I travels through... the oceans of time
