You won't regret falling, the bruises you get falling, will all fade away
Don't analyse falling, don't try being wise falling Forget all your plans, they're out of your hands You're falling, falling, falling

Blindly you go falling, the last one to know you're falling, you suddenly see There's no way to fight falling, no rescue inside, you're falling
You let love inside and hope she'll abide, you're falling, falling, falling

The world that you face is some other planet in space
You taste something new every moment
It thrills you, fills you, you're falling

(Instrumental break)

I have to defend falling, 'cause if you should end
falling
I hope you'll be free to spend time with me Falling, falling, falling, just falling, falling, falling Falling, falling, falling
