After all the hardships
And how far we came
That one simple fight
Could make tonight
Our last

When you came in with that look on your face
I knew that I was in the wrong place
At that point I knew something was wrong
Something didn't quite belong
And then we started to walk there
For what I was getting I had to prepare
A meeting I never wanted to attend
That night I lost one of my best friends

A night not soon forgotten
A conversation about something so rotten
That night is not forever in my memory
The night I lost the other three

Then I took the longest walk I've ever had
To think this is over is this just a fad
Come to my senses and realize this is the end
This is real life it's not just pretend
Sitting there feeling empty all alone
Everything I knew uplifted here's my cyclone
On the drive home I wrote a song about our end
Promising myself that I'll never do this again

A night not soon forgotten
A conversation about something so rotten
That night is not forever in my memory
The night I lost the other three

And how can I go back again
When this memory will never end (how can I go back?)

After all the hardships
And how far we came
That one simple fight
Made that night

Our last
