your thin

your thin paper wings

in the wind,

dangling

your sun, fly

your window, shattering

your thin

your thin paper wings

sugarbox - sugarboy

riding in

riding in

handheld candle sugarboy

your rails

your thin

your thin paper wings

your thin paper wings

in the wind,

your window shattered in the wind

your cocacola saint,

rattlin

rattlin

resonator...

homeless strays,

gatherin

outside your window

bootleg babies call to you lying among the mosquitos

that summer's fever coming

cats are gathering

bootleg babies,

calling to you

lying among

lie among the mosquitos

your thin

your thin paper wings

in the wind

danglin

danglin

the sun lying

your cocacola sign

your thin

paper wings

resonator...

homeless strays,

gathering

outside your window

bootleg babies call to you,

lying among the mosquitos

and the summer's fever coming

calling to you

your thin

in the wind

your sun, fly

dangling

dangling

the sun and on your cocacola saint

/

talk to me...

there is a sound on the other side of this wall

burning singing on the other side of this glass

footsteps concealed

silence is preserving the voice

walking in the wind at the water's edge comes close to covering my rubber feet listening to the barbed wire hanging

silver chain

thrown away

broken wing

silver and blue and blue and denim
