Orange, orange, orange in the mouth again straighten Wearing stone washed denim again straighten Carrying something wrapped in plastic straighten Curled on the blue velveteen again straighten

Straighten
Sightless yellow highrise bethnal green straighten Corner tubeless dark and wet straighten
Ten tons slowly then again straighten

With its glass eyes a blue Formica halo
Stainless steel between the fingers straighten Piston leaning ponytail licking colonel sanders fingers
The naming of killer boy

Everything's going west, nothing's going east
straighten
There's no need to be so uptight straighten
Make up for all their messes I could listen to you all day
What a laugh, cut me I bleed like you, ha ha

The naming of killer boy
Cover your teeth, I love you
Don't bite me yet, I believe in you, I found you
Shopping in Europa on Warder Street
Not phoning packwidth

Guilty as sin straighten
Scratches on paper pissed in a tubehole straighten Smelling of deep-fried beans and whispering your name
Tubehole wind in my face thunder in gentle distance

Reactor, reactor, do you mind straighten?
