He doesn't see her anymore
And yet she stands in front of him
No communication
Only empty words are spoken
With a memory she lingers
On and on and on
For a moment she'll just
Close her eyes and drift away
He doesn't see her anymore
Somehow forgotten what it is
He promised to be here for
But there's something there
There's something left
That keeps her by his side
Close her eyes...
She remembers the passion
Doesn't feel the breath, a kiss
And yet she lies beside him
No imagination
Keeps two steps back - two steps back
With a memory she lingers

On and on and on

For a moment she'll just

Close her eyes and remember when

He doesn't see her anymore

Somehow forgotten what it is

He promised to be here for

But there's something left

There's something there

That keeps her by his side

Close her eyes...

She remembers

She remembers him

She remembers why she came here

From far away to find her way through fairytales...

He doesn't see her anymore

Somehow forgotten what it is

He promised to be there for

But there's something there

That keeps her by his side

Something there

There's something stronger

That keeps her hanging on

Close her eyes

And they remember why it is

They promised to be here

Close her eyes...

She remembers the passion
