sun smudged, peach moon softer than an ice cream cone in June why is that lightning strikes so perfectly at night? what you do is what you choose, but consider consequences when you lose (i don't care, ay ya ya ya ya)] all my life Ive been waiting for a sign to say move on and tonight

the salt thats in the air just feels right

why is it that thunder purrs so strikingly at night
