This is my home The land of my mother
The place I play With sisters and brothers
The tree are rooted in the ground beneath
Take away the violence Give the earth back its peace
This is our world Our common salvation
It knows no borders It serves no nation
The same sun shines equally On those beneath
Take away the violence Give the earth back its peace
There's fire in the ground in the space between the trees
In the forests and fields On pathways, in dreams
The stars are whispering To the ground beneath
Take away the darkness Give the earth back its peace
Who painted the green grass red with danger
Who colored the big sky blue with sorrow
A strong wind carrying fear and anger
Came and went and stole tomorrow
This is my home The land of my mother
The place I play with sisters and brothers
The tree are rooted In the ground beneath
Take away the violence Give the earth back its peace

The same sun shines equally

On those beneath

Take away the darkness Give the earth back its peace

Like trees we're rooted In the ground beneath

Take away the violence Give the earth back its peace

Give the earth back its peace
