Don't call it off
Don't say it's over now
'Cause I call the shots
And when I say it's off, it's off

And don't call it off
And don't say what you think you have to say to me
What's done is done, and I think we both agree
That we've run this into the ground

And I think it's time (it's time)
We say goodnight (we say goodnight)
I think it's time (it's time)
We say goodbye

Does she know just how to whisper in your ear the way I do?
And does she catch your eyes from a distance standing in a crowded room?
How many times must I sing my soul to you (my soul to you)
Before you realize the trials you put me through?
No one has to know

Would you grant me this last request?
I just want to feel like I've had something to say in this relationship
It's been too rough trying to see eye to eye
And it's been so tough, but at least I tried And I've had enough, so let me scream it out with my last breath
I think it's time

Does she know just how to whisper in your ear the way I
do?
And does she capture eyes from a distance standing in a crowded room?
How many times must I sing my soul to you (my soul to you)
Before you realize the trials you put me through?
No one has to know

No

No one, no one

No, no, no

Too many dreams have come to life

Just to wither and die

Keep it a secret, save your pride

I hope she eats you alive, no

'Cause your faithless words and blasphemy

Won't get you anywhere with me, no

Just keep it a secret, save your pride

I hope she eats you alive

How many times must I sing my soul to you

Before you realize the trials you've put me through?

No one has to know

No one, no one, no one

One more time now

No one has to know

No one has to know

No one has to know

No one has to know
