i wake up and start my everyday routine of working hard at feeling sorry for myself and after lunch i close my eyes and wish to God that i could change but when i wake up im so very much myself and im a long way from believing that im gonna be ok

such a long way from believing that i'll escape this feeling that i hate its a miracle that we are here today with all the pain we put ourseleves through over nothing

cuz if you think hard you'll know soon it will be ok and you'll holding onto someone holding onto someone

wondering what in the world im gonna do cuz things are falling into place but i can not appreciate them cuz if last i fell apart then this might do

dimly lit my porchlight i can see your eyes they are staring into my face staring into my face i should trust what i see in them i know the time is right but still i'll take the easy road and wait i've got to stop being scared music time it isnt fair i could die tomorrow or today control is resting on my side but knowing just would not be right and thats not how i wanna live my life and its miracle that we are here today with all the pain we put ourselves through over nothing

and you'll be holding on to someone

cuz if you think ahrd
you'll know soon it will be ok
holding on
