Telephone rings about a quarter to five
He wants me to meet him tonight
I say I won't; he knows I will
He said "Wear that dress that turns my head
The one that knocks me dead"
I say I won't; he knows I will

Yea he knows I'll come running
Every time he comes or call
Though I painfully pretend
He doesn't get to me at all
He wants me to love
As if I'll never get my feel
I say I won't; he knows I will

He's been planning a trip to Mexico
Said he'd really like me to go
I say I won't; he knows I will
There's a bed & breakfast in Angels Square
He can find heaven there
I say I won't; he knows I will

Yea he knows I'll come running
Every time he comes or call
Though I painfully pretend
He doesn't get to me at all
He wants me to love
As if I'll never get my feel
I say I won't; he knows I will

My heart knows that he's gonna pop
The question some day soon
The one I'm sure his heart
Already knows the answer to

Yea he knows I'll come running
Every time he comes or call
Though I painfully pretend
He doesn't get to me at all
He wants me to love
As if I'll never get my feel

I say I won't; he knows I will
Yea he knows, they know
Everybody knows I will
