I remember it so clearly
Was a dark gray rainy day
I came over feeling sorry
Standing drunk dead from the rain
Yeah you opened up the doorway
Looking broken from the start
You let me in and I began

I feel like I'm in over my head
I just always self destruct
I guess I'm blinded by the sudden loss of love
I wonder who picks up the pieces when we fall apart
Even empire's burn to ashes
I don't know where to start

Spinning out
I think we've lost control
We're burning down every letter that we wrote
Bruised for now
Some bruises just don't fade
I know somehow someday things will get better

I remember it so clearly
As you walked out of your door
You said wait wait I can't take no more
Of the slurred excuses
Every single word I ever said
Was in your benefit

I felt my world fall down around me
My world just split apart
Guess it's alright when your left with broken hearts
Cause you grow with good intentions
You learn more about this life
I watched our empire burn to ashes as you left me there that night

Spinning out
I think we've lost control
We're burning down every letter that we wrote
Bruised for now

Some bruises just don't fade
I know somehow someday things will get better
Spinning out
I think we've lost control
We're burning down every letter that we wrote
Bruised for now
Some bruises just don't fade
I know somehow someday things will get better

Don't wait can't take more of this mess
You're late on every broken promise
And all I want is for everything to be alright again
But I can't wait again

I can't take no more
I can't take no more

Spinning out
I think we've lost control
We're burning down every letter that we wrote
Bruised for now
Some bruises just don't fade
I know somehow someday things will get better
Spinning out
I think we've lost control
We're burning down every letter that we wrote
Bruised for now
Some bruises just don't fade
I know somehow someday things will get better
