

Midway State, The "Atlantic"

I saw the ocean swallow you. through the haze, I search for you, trying to find where I had you.

Hard London rain beat colour out through the night my body shouts telling me to hold you now

If you could feel my fire reach for you flames draw high out to you streetlight shines through my window, it trembles for you take my heart, there you go.
London's wild, but I'm alone.
You're so far but I'm not tired, I'm coming for you.

All over waves and straight across to the steps where we were lost in the night, our bodies locked all in your eyes the colours are like the red runs through my heart now it beats for you my love

Tonight I feel restless Atlantic hum across these waters for you we're still young.
