"Sea Beneath"

something happened to me today all these thoughts came rushing through they were all from the past all these memories of you... of when the walls came crashing down, and the world fell apart from underneath our feet it happened so fast when the sun, and the moon, and the stars turn as black as the night time sea and our world falls apart from around us and it's so dark that we can't see I would be so content if I knew that you would be there with me this whole world could come to an end if you would just stay here with me don't ever leave...
don't you believe in me?
don't you believe in us?
don't you believe in this?
you took me to a place so far away a place it seems like never ending pain I thought I could handle it but I thought wrong you tore me apart, ripped me out, and devoured my soul up whole.
and the pain iust fades away...
I'm numb
sometimes I wish I could be whole again to wake up next to you, or just hold you hand but our walls came crashing down into the sea beneath
