the sun has set upon your world a taste of ash is on your tongue the choice was yours and you chose wrong it haunts your mind - a thousand wrongs and you've forgotten (you've lost your way) have you forgotten? (you were led astray) you've lost and you've forgotten (you've lost your way) you're lost and you've forgotten (and you've forgotten) you didn't see the path was yours it stretched before you like a dream you knew the word, the key to open up the door but you turned your back and walked away

a bitter sense of what you've lost chained to this road, you've wandered long compelled to walk this path alone
