

Party Tea

"The Majestic Song"

Visit "The Majestic Song" on MotoLyrics.com

With a thought you could change what you never really know

With a lie you could take from the love they never showed

Come along, come along now it's not too far away

And the streams they are running to an ocean that is dry

And the sands of the ocean are the prophets in the eye

Of the sage who has chosen to forfeit all he knows... I
know

And you know, and you know now that some things never change

In a world, in a world that seems bound by human pain

Come along, come along now it's not too far away

And beyond you will see the how the ever changing glow

It surrounds all the feelings you never thought you'd
know

Come along, come along now it's not too far away

And you know, and you know now that some things
never change

In a world, in a world that seems bound by human pain

Come along, come along now it's not too far away...I
know

And the streams they are running to an ocean that is
dry

And the sands of the ocean are the prophets in the eye

Of the sage who has chosen to forfeit all he knows...I
know

And you know, and you know now that some things
never change

In a world, in a world that seems bound by human pain

Come along, come along now it's not too far away... I
know

And you know, and you know now that some things
never change

In a world, in a world that seems bound by human pain

Come along, come along now it's not too far away

I know, I know, I know

Visit Party Tea page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.