Many times I've told you, you've got to take a look inside, to find the truth that hides behind your eyes, And all that I can see, are your empty stairs and they are avoiding me,
How can I pretend to understand?

Now's a time to face to face you'll see
In your reflexion
Do not turn around don't be affraid,
Of what you maight see,
So now you've go face to face Right here and now it's a place to look yourself in the eyes and learn to love what you find and now you've go face to face what are you waiting for?

I am not your mother, and still you've got to listen to, the inner voice who tell you what to do, now I don't break a point of who's right and who is not, it's important to know that this is not a game...

Now that you have face the face you see,
In your reflexion,
you must turn around don't be affraid, what you will see,
So now you've go face to face
right here and now it's a place
to look yourself in the eyes and go to love what you find
And now you've come face to face,
what are you waiting for?

face to face..
face to face...
face to face...
