Wake up
It's time to run in circles
But the faster you go
The more that you know
That everything is falling apart

She said
you're wrong, it's time to leave this world I know
But you can sing me a song
I haven't got long
And suns up and I'm ready to go

Why do we always get so far from ourselves
Why do we always get so far
And you can run
And you can hide
We can pretend to say goodnight
But wherever you are, I will anchor you tonight

Wake up
It's time to run in circles
But the faster you go
The more that you know
That everything is falling apart

She said
You're wrong, it's time to run the streets we know
To tear up the walls
To capture our falls
And see how far we've already come

Why do we always get so far from ourselves
Why do we always get so far
And you can run
And you can hide
We can pretend to say goodnight
But wherever you are, I will anchor you tonight

And if only I could stand here and be here on my own

Why do we always get so far from ourselves

Why do we always get so far
And you can run
And you can hide
We can pretend to say goodnight
But wherever you are, I will anchor you tonight

And if only I could stand here and be here on my own
If only I could stand here and be here on my own
If only I could stand here and be here on my own (wherever you are, wherever you are)
I will anchor you tonight
