how can i wipe away these tears should they mean anything? cause i've still got my faith but what if i have only faith in me? does that mean anything? i guess i still betrayed a rule but can we always be confined we're left uninspired with no desire to win or even take a chance nothing to lose
not innocent but always clinging to silence cause i'm worried what they might say you never know i might see them as important someday

well i wish i could die and come back to life so i could hear what they might say now i know you want to be something like she is and he is but please don't be shallow and if you ever find a way don't forget me as i'll be your best friend till that day until you cross the line and lose your mind as happiness is so hard to find cause you've been trapped in a falsely promoted bind where nothing is as seems your social status is your scene you're always perfect and so clean

cause you're worried what they might say you never know you might see them as important
someday
but i wish you would die and come back to life so you could hear what they might say (if anything) twisting, and turning wondering why you don't know what you are but i know you're hiding yourself as you blame yourself for everything that you're not you're so better than what they say we're so better than what they say

someday
so you could hear what they might say well i'm not worrying what they might say because i know i'm important today and i wish they would die and come back to life as they wouldn't hear what i could say as i won't be playing their games so does it matter what they might say? who cares what they might say? not me
