I wonder just how long it will be
Me without you, you without me

We had a fight last night about something or other
But it can't be too important if we love one another Whoa, true love always seems to take a little bit longer
But every time we break up, we make up a little bit stronger

I wonder just how long it will be
Me without you, you without me

Let me tell you, now, I wonder just how long it will be
Me without you, you without me
Me without you, and you without me
Me without you, and you without me
