I walk alone most every night
Beneath the stars that shine so bright
Bright as the eyes of you

And when the sky comes fallin' down
And there is darkness all around
All around, I'll be lookin' for you

Lonely, I look at the green flowing meadow
Wondering what I am to do
Sun going down, and streets cast their shadow
In the shadow and the mist
I remember the last kiss of you

And when the skies are once more blue
I get that old longing, too,
To be held in the arms of you

And when the skies are once more blue
I get that old longing, too,
To be held in the arms of you
To be held in the arms of you
