All these years I waited cos I knew that you'd return. No stranger's
hand has touched this temple.
One candle slowly burned for you. (Were you waiting too?) For you...just for you.
I swear I heard you crying on that cruel uncanny breeze. I saw you crawling down there on your bleeding hands and knees. Now crawl right up to me, my captain. The good ship sails away forever...That's the way it's meant to be.
The good ship sails away forever. Leave us be.
These were the gentle words she said, though I could not find her in my head. I searched for little clues but all the lights were glowing
red. And in the end I smiled politely, snatched my coat and fled.
From you.
Now I swear I hear her crying on the cruel uncanny breeze. I see her crawling down there on her bleeding hands and knees.
Come to me!
The good ship sails away forever. It was never meant to be.
