Chairman:

What's a king without his crown
Take away his thrown and gown
He could be the rabble or the russian czar
Judge each creature of our race
By each feature in their face
Look at him, I rest my case
Well, there you are
And it matters not to me what part of town you've come from
We but cheer you've made it here at all
Here within this garish parish called the music hall.....

All:

There you are
How distingue and debonair you are
There you are
Just slightly west of Leichester square you are,
Yes there you are
And Thankful we all should be full well aware we are
There you are

Prysock:

I am standing with a gent
Who seems singularly bent
On attatching both his hands to both my knees

Nutting:

I am sitting in the lap
Of a most engaging chap
And I'll let him do exactly as I please

Paget:

I've a lady down in front Who's handed me her latch key
Surely she must know that spells her doom!

Grinstead:

And these lovely people will bravo me more or less

Peregrine:

And this man has grand designs to show me
In my dressing room...
There you are
How very glad we are that
There you are
It isn't who you are but Where you are
And there you are
And grateful we all should be full well aware we are So lightning quick let's all kick up a fuss
We can but pray your trust is blind in us
So drink your fill and just unwind in us
A warmly wicked state of mind in us
You'll find in us
We want you and not a lot we care for where you've been
And not a jot we care how you got in
We but care that there you are
There you are
