

Mountain Goats, The

"San Bernardino"

Visit "San Bernardino" on MotoLyrics.com

We got in your car and we hit the highway Eastern sun was rising over the mountains Yellow and blood red bits like a kaleidoscope

And flaming swords may guard the garden of Eden
But we consulted maps from earlier days
Dead languages on our tongues
Holding on to our last hope

And the day was bright and fine
And the highway sign said, "San Bernadino welcomes you

I checked us into our hotel and filled the bathtub
And you got in the warm warm water
I pulled pedals from my pocket
I loved you so much just then

And it was hard but you were brave, you are splendid And we will never be alone in this world no matter what they say We're gonna be okay

We were safe inside and our new son cried, "San Bernadino welcomes you

Visit Mountain Goats, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.