We've only scratched the surface
We've got so much left to give// You pulled the tourniquet just tight enough to save the limb//
It all amounts to nothing
I've never bled so slow//
We knew the ins and outs of everything
Now we question where to go.

You be the night
I'll be the sky//
When we collide it's more than beautiful//
Like the stars have all alligned
I know it seems we both breathe the jealous air sometimes//
But that's okay somethings are harder to outgrow.

The subtlest abrasion yeah
You've got yours and we've got ours//
But picking at them only guarantees they'll leave a scar//
A chemical in question will have the most affect// Another classic case when the truest form is the one you'd least expect.

And I know this is not the first time doubt has ever met your list//
Like a brother's battle
A victor can't be hailed//
From the depths of what was one thought of impossible at best// Atleast this is my destruction.
