

Mourning Maxwell

"Tastes Like Burning"

Visit "Tastes Like Burning" on MotoLyrics.com

Here we are again
Tracing the lines from all the things we've done//
To the places that we've been//
Between forever and right now//
We'll have the memories to keep you near and the screaming silence out.

We could set this night ablaze and what it burn slow//
While your eyes they pour like rain//
If we bring it back to the start the start you'll see//
We both owe so much if we fanned the flames would it ever be the same.

We could gaze on different bends as long as the atmosphere remains in tacts//
Out signals never end//
Refraining from that bittersweet descent//
That follows the words of punctured faith from mouths
you never would have guessed.

So this is it taste's like alone.

Visit Mourning Maxwell page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.