Just take a breath and inhale this cold
One last goodbye for a heart of stone And if broken promises are all you know then why can't I just let you go?

Would it help if I said I was sorry?
To hear from my throat that I miss you so Here's the words, I'm sorry (you're sorry) just come running back and never let me go. (never let this go)

With a glance to my past I keep walking on away from tonight and from all I want I'll take this broken glass from the bottle I've found and slide it under the skin of my arm.

And if you want to know how we stand then follow the drops of blood on this beaches sand I'm still waiting to be washed away in these raging tides of Blackheart Bay.
