It's funny as a teenager
When you always think your right
Never wanting to be put down
Where you're always in sight
The light shines on your face
And the glows in your eyes
You face up to the wrong
And right, well it makes you cry
Here I go
Without another word
I don't think
It's something to hide
I know I was wrong
When I left your life
And now that Im back
I see you're alive
Everything I had
Was something to smile at
Everything from friends
To the family, and grandma kat
Mom you did me right

And I thank you for that
The gift of your family
Will always be true
Here I go
Without another word
I don't think
It's something to hide
I know I was wrong
When I left your life
And now that I'm back
I see you're alive
It's been a few times
That I've walked from the people
Who mean most to me
But I'm here tonight
Standing and promising
That I'll never leave again
Because now that I see
What you all feel
I know that I'm lucky
To have friends so real
Here I go
Without another word
I don't think
It's something to hide

I know I was wrong
And now that I'm back
I see you're alive
I stand a ground
Without another word
A smile on my face
I know it's all good
With open arms
I reach For all my friends
Please remember
That I'm back again
That I'm back again
