They're big, I'm little, they go, I twiddle
Why can't little guys do big things too?

You're not going to sing, are you?
Couldn't you just play your harp
And I'll throw things at you, oh

You're big, I'm little
My head only comes to your middle
But I say little guys can do big things too

Yes, but Goliath, he's, he's big but God's bigger
And when I think of Him, that's when I figure
With His help, little guys can do big things too

Oh, I see what you're saying
Alright, I understand, now let's suppose that this is true
You still look rather wimpy but I know what we can do
Just step behind the curtain, it will only take a minute There's a closet in the corner and you'll like what I've got in it

You'll find my royal armor there, don't dally, put it on Yes, now you'll look much bigger when the battle lines are drawn
One more thing you need, I think that's right, pick up my royal sword

It's a big one, and a beauty the best you could afford
Once you've got it all together, I think you will agree You're bound to do much better if you try to look like me, oh dear

You know, I think maybe I should just be plain old me
Oh, yes, well, I supposed
But have you seen Goliath? He's, he's just

He's big but God's bigger
And when I think of Him, that's when I figure
With His help, little guys can do big things
With His help, I know I can do big things
With His help, little guys can do big things too

Alright, if you are sure
You know what you are getting in to, oh dear
