i'll tell you everything as clearly as a fax machine in spite of all the evidence that can be less intense but i don't know what to say without digging my own grave so i try to change the subject though i know it's just too late
And I don't want to waste another day here inside
just try to reach the outside you'll find your best intentions shut down just like that i took the faster round like goldfish in a plastic bag i don't know the significance of living in the present tense

And when i start to stray i don't get too far away
So i never know the difference 'til it hits me in the face And i'm not going to spend another day here
