Your mirror tells you lies, showing beauty in false proportions spoiled to the top, it will take you down
So many lives in your hands, who are you to give commands?
You will not make it through this night!

Now it's too late! There is nowhere to run!
Stop acting proud and look what you've done!
Now it's your fate! There is nowhere to turn!
Stop wasting hate and hope for the sun!

The water is rising, there is nowhere to go.
Is this how it all will end? HOLD ON! HOLD ON!

Your torch won't guide you through this cave, just fill up the dark.
Without a map or a compass you are forever lost!
(For ever!)

Your self-control seems as distant as the horizon,
Your eyes are set on distractions, though your habits has turned you blind

As days turns to weeks, you're just getting weaker
As days turns to weeks, you're just getting weaker
As days turns to weeks, you're just getting weaker!

You are the captain of this ship.
In the matter of moral you're sinking with it.
But there is no need to be a man of honor.
Save your self!

We took it all for granted.
What was supposed to keep us dry.
Deliverance locked away
(So) there is nothing more than water (now)
