There was a man with a hole in his brain
like some people do.
He decided to fix it
find a special kind of glue.
But when he got to thinking
just what the solution was
it was in the very part of his brain that he had lost.

And there was a girl with her heart in her hand
cos she had too much in her breast.
Caused her lots of trouble
she couldn't get much rest.
Then she saw the man with a hole in his brain.
She had a good notion then.
I'll put some heart inside his head and he'll be whole again.

And he did love her for what she did.
And she had both arms free
for dancing and for holding hands and embracing happily.
The story is a most common one of course
it doesn't end there.
But maybe you can help someone
with what you've got to spare.

Maybe you can help someone to walk that lonsome road.
Maybe you can help someone to lift their heavy load.
Maybe you can help somone with what you've got to spare.
To help someone can help one some
and we might all get somewhere.
