From the Golden seat of Ramses to the ending of the sacred Nile
The pharaohs of this ancient land the deserts cross countless miles Inside the labyrinth where buried is the king his waiting maids countless gifts lie within
heart and soul
As they walk through the passages of endless night using sparsely the candles as their only light Living only on the storages of food they brought no escape live to die becomes their only thought Cursed buried deep inside the pyramid king
Tutankhamun
Cursed where this grave is their only thing Kking
Tutankhamun
As the years begin to close and food to nourish sparse insanity starts to reign to flourish in the dark As they walk through the passages of endless time
using sparsely the candles as their only light
Living only on the storages of food they brought no
escape live to die becomes their only thought Cursed buried deep inside the pyramid king
Tutankhamun
Cursed where this grave is their only thing king Tutankhamun
And as they walk through the passages of endless night
Drawing nearer to the last nothing left inside the tomb Except the braintead plight lost in histories of the past Cursed buried deep inside the pyramid king
Tuankhamun
Cursed where his grave is the only thing king Tutankhamun
Cursed buried deep inside the pyramid king buried deep inside the pyramid
Cursed buried deep inside the pyramid king buried
deep inside the pyramid
